

Havana, March 23, 2015

Dear Mrs. Andrea Bittermann / Germany

It is a pleasure for the Organizing Committee of the Havana International Theatre Festival (FTH) to invite your company with the show Berlin: Die ratten kommen to our XVI Edition that will be held from October 22nd to the 31st in 2015.

The FTH was founded in 1980, and it is a non-competitive event that opens our stages and venues to tendencies, ideas, proposals and dialogues among colleagues from all over the world.

In this edition, the Festival will be focused on Stage Direction, and thus will hold the work and life of Peter Brook – that will be 90 years old in 2015 – as the central figure.

Appreciating approaches and procedures in practical, theoretical and pedagogical dialogues; will be the final goal of our event. Our audience, formed and educated with the tradition of this theatre experience, has always played the main role in our cultural gathering. Together with the international proposals, we will show the most representative works of our national theatre scene that will end up in an attractive agenda.

Unfortunately, our current economic limitations will make it impossible for us to cover your airfare or other expenses during the Festival.

We very kindly request your confirmation as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Rafael Pérez-Malo Stinga

Executive Director
